

It's December 2023! (Finally)

Welcome to the December 2023 newsletter, and happy holidays! It's been a busy month outside of my creative endeavors, so this will be a very short newsletter. I hope this photo of Jonathan Harker screaming at the camera will be enough to sate people.

Beachouse Studios Inches Forward

On the Beachouse Studios front, there have unfortunately been a few editorial delays in getting the first book online. We are continuing to make minor corrections to the book to make sure it's as pristine as possible before it goes live. Alas, these things happen and I'm still learning a lot about the process! The good news is that most of the back-end work is done and I'm anticipating getting to send ARCs out very soon. I'm excited to get those first reactions before the book overall goes live!

That doesn't mean I'm not still hard at work on the overall series. Book 2 has officially had its rough draft completed and can now move to editing, with about a third of Book 3 written. We're continuing along towards the eventual dropping of Book 1. I'm looking at about a six month window between each release to make sure the books are polished, but these plans are ever-changing. I'll keep y'all in the loop!

Podcasting Pivot Back

Gold Squadron Gays will be finishing out the year with Darth Vader (2017) and its final arc, Fortress Vader. I just recorded the second of three episodes on the arc this morning. We're enjoying this series a lot, and it's been fun to cover comics! If you have any recommendations for non-Star Wars comics I can read, particularly ones with gay characters, please send them my way. Next, we will be covering Ahsoka, beginning with Episode Zero on January 1st of 2024.

Meanwhile, For Light and Dice is well into its first arc of season two. It's been a disaster, but in a good way. Not for the characters, of course. Check it out!

Onto The New Year!

That's all for December 2023. I'll be working hard for the next few weeks to try to finish out the year on a strong note. See you all in 2024!

I'm sure it will be fine.
